They come back, with reluctant anticipation, the chlorine still in their eyes and the sounds of summer still in their ears. The first week is either a grand reunion or a huge mystery. The effies soon learn about elevator tickets and tours of the salt mines. Seniors wonder what it will be like with "nobody left" and finally adjust to their new role. Juniors make a class effort to flunk out of school while they put on the "better than the best Peanuts ever." And there are ever so many forms to fill out, fees to pay, and envelopes to address.

The leaves turn, the air becomes chilly, and everyone wears sweaters now. The fixed routine: study, eat, sleep, is interrupted now and then by assemblies, the teachers' convention, pre-school pep rallies, and spirit club PA announcements. The AFS students become Walnut Hills students. VAST is a weekly project for many. There is time enough for college conferences and the Senior Class Play.

Then after Thanksgiving comes that delightful month of excitement and surprises and waiting, and no one cares if it is a green Christmas. It still means the fragrant tree in the main hall, "O, Come All Ye Faithful" and candles, and Homecoming with old friends.

Vacation is over all too soon, and now there are only three short weeks until mid-terms. The teachers are trying desperately to finish every thing they wanted to cover, and the work load is sometimes staggering. Somehow the dreaded exams are over and hopefully passed, and there is a brief period of exhilaration before everyone settles back down to work, this time in earnest. In these long winter months, the student explores competing ideas, asks searching questions, and learns to think for himself. Upperclassmen find greater challenge in the Advanced Placement Program. The Merit scholars, "cum laude" members, and academic contest winners are an inspiration to all. School means more than just basketball games, Walnuts, the artists series, Othello, and the thirteen-inch snowfall, and there are more than just tangible rewards. Guided and protected within these columns and arches, the student feels as if he could stay on, searching for knowledge, forever, until . . .

New signs of life in nature begin to appear outdoors where students' thoughts soon wander. It is still a long time until graduation, but "senioritis" is catching. Convertible tops come down, and homework is sometimes forgotten. Harvey is the favorite play, and Dr. Zhivago the best movie. Colleges have begun to reveal their decisions, resulting in many a confident smile or worried glance. Meanwhile, APP exams are imminent, and preparations for Prom are unfolding.

And now it is almost over. Seniors are learning to walk to the tune of "Pomp and Circumstance," outstanding students are being considered for various honors, and the rest of the school, with half its mind contemplating the joys of summer, is preparing for those final few hours which will decide who is the victor — the student or the subject.

This year is now past, but the remembrance of it will never pass. Through pictures, REMEMBRANCER has tried to capture the special mood of this year. Therefore, let the student fondly remember . . .

Peanuts begins the year with an inspiring example of spirit and unity.

After breathtaking moments in the cold, crisp air,

guitars wail, and defeat is forgotten.

Willingly or unwillingly, the students

are learning, and they find outlets for their energies in fall activities.

Who can escape the joyous holiday mood . . . and snow!

As school resumes,

enthusiastic crowds cheer the team.

Students watch

the stage with an expectant eye,

knowing that

soon they will be performing there.

PRINCIPALS

Walnut Hills was indeed fortunate six years ago to have Mr. Philip McDevitt accept the position of Principal and the responsibility of providing leadership to our school. Traditionally the objectives at Walnut Hills have always been of the highest and success in maintaining these standards of achievement requires a high degree of dedication. Mr. Mc-Devitt has given us wise counsel, an appreciation of high standards of scholarship and a sense of the importance of learning, which challenges the students to their best efforts.

Management of the countless administrative details is under the able direction of the Assistant Principals: Mr. Spreen, in the area of instruction and scheduling, and Mr. Heilmann, handling the pupil accounting and building routine. Through the influence of these men Walnut Hills students are directed toward a more rewarding life in the future.

Mr. Banks

COUNSELORS

Our Junior High Counselors are concerned with helping the student with such problems as orientation, planning a tentative four year program, and gaining some perspective on his academic future.

The Senior High Counselors' primary responsibility is college guidance. However, they have a definite responsibility for helping students with their academic, social, and personal adjustments.

ENGLISH

The English course teaches the effective use of language in writing and speaking and the recognition of an author's vision of a selection of subject, logical analysis, orderly arrangement, and appropriate style. With a knowledge of these principles to aid the student in self-expression, he is prepared to examine the ideas of others. Reading comprehension is vitally related to an analysis of word, tone, and atmosphere, and to consideration of the complexities of human experience and moral values. With comprehension of the artist's view of life comes a new awareness of all we see and feel.

LATIN

"I married a customs inspector!" explodes the henpecked husband to his wife. An excerpt from a television situation-comedy? No, rather, a humorous outburst in a 2000 year-old Plautine play. "Take heart again, oh, put your dismal fears away! One day—who knows?—even these will be grand things to look back on." Sensitive lines from a Shakespearean tragedy? Wrong again—Aeneas spoke these words in Virgil's epic masterpiece, the Aeneid. The study of Latin leads the student to these works as well as to Caesar's war commentaries and Cicero's fiery orations. While introducing the student to the literature and culture of the ancient world, Latin also widens his vocabulary and improves his understanding of the structure of language. From the first "Britannia est insula" to the last line of Horace's epodes, the Latin department preserves the tradition of classical education at Walnut Hills.

MODERN LANGUAGES

What can you do in your native tongue? You can read in it, write in it, sing in it, recite in it... Then think of the glory and gain in knowing another tongue. Almost everyone knows "Brother John" and most people know "Frere Jacques" but how many know "Fray Felipe" or even "Bruder Jakot"?

In an attempt to bridge this cultural gap, the modern language department takes the lead. Working with the language clubs, they offer both a firm grounding in foreign grammar and literature and a lively approach to the study of foreign people and countries. New teaching methods and the language laboratory have added much to the student's ability to learn and enjoy his chosen "second tongue".

HISTORY

What is history? The recorded words and actions of all mankind, from the obscurity of early centuries to the familiarity of today—all this comprises history.

Ranging from elementary civics and local events, through general courses in ancient, medieval, modern, and American history to two intense college-level APP courses, the history department offers its followers a full and varied background. As an added fillip, it also provides a class in socioeconomics. And since, as Solomon says, "There is nothing new under the sun," the student devotes himself to history to get a head-start in his coming life.

MATHEMATICS

Mathematics, an organized body of knowledge founded on a surprisingly small number of basic assumptions, is honored for the precision of its concepts, the rigor of its demonstration, and the certainty of its truths. Current courses examine the areas of geometry, algebra, and function concepts to provide insight into the nature of mathematical thought and to perform manipulations with facility. From eleven basic principles accepted as postulates, concepts as diverse as the Pythagorean, and Mean Value Theorems are rigorously developed through logical reasoning in order that the student may extend ideas already presented into fresh problems.

Mr. Bailey

Mr. Woodward

Miss Brueggemann

SCIENCE

Through the study of science, the student prepares for life in an increasingly technical and scientifically oriented society. After basic courses in general science and biology, the student may specialize with courses in zoology, chemistry, physics, and physiology; later, the highly motivated may continue with Advanced Placement courses in chemistry, physics, or biology. An irradiated rat, the glowing glare of burning magnesium, a notebook full of physics formulas, a growing chrysanthemum—all these illustrate the range of science and its possibilities for research, experimentation, and discovery.

ART

Occupational therapy? Maybe, but you will never convince the art teachers of that. Mrs. Dobbins, Miss Goodwin, and Mr. Henneberg enjoy watching their students dab paint around and jab their fingers into clay. But they have much more in mind than this. They think it the purpose of the art program "to realize the aesthetic, creative potential of each individual through allowing his expression in a wide variety of media and to provide enrichment and insight through an understanding of the arts."

Sketching a tree, modeling a figure, creating a unified but varied batik design for an abstract idea -all of these efforts give the student an exhilarating awareness of his world.

MUSIC

Miss Plyler, Mr. Hammons, and Mr. Steiden comprise the team responsible for the development of the musical talents of Walnut Hills' students. Miss Plyler confronts 200 junior high pupils, eager to burst into song. Mr. Steiden and Mr. Hammons, on the other hand, transform those who do not know staccato from legato, or a glockenspiel from an oboe, into competent musicians.

The tooting of trumpets, and the strains of "Come All Ye Faithful" echoing through the halls bring to mind a first stage experience, marching down a football field on a cold autumn night, or carrying a candle down the aisle in a hushed auditorium—all of these events give the student a deeper appreciation of music.

VARSITY

Hampered by inexperience, lack of depth, and injuries, the fighting Eagles played an often exciting but generally disappointing season. In capable hands, the team trained and practiced hard, but experience was only acquired at the cost of a season in defeat.

The year opened with a loss to LaSalle followed by two reverses from Withrow and Taft. The first win of the season was gained at the expense of Hughes, as the Big Reds were worn down by a fierce running attack and clutch passing. The Eagles suffered their fourth loss against Woodward and then another at the hands of Aiken. But the Eagles hit paydirt once again defeating Western Hills with their best ball of the season. The grid action came to a disappointing close when the team succumbed to Courter Tech and Wilmington. Now possessing strength, knowledge, determination, and the much needed experience, our Eagles can look forward to a promising '66 season.

Coach Bailey gives half time briefing.

Eagles sweep their own left end to pick up a first down.

Woodward's ground attack is halted by Eagle gridmen.

Aided by Eagle's offensive blocking, Lumpkins gains yardage against Woodward as he sweeps the Bulldog's end.

An auspicious handoff is completed by Lumpkins to Allen.

Allen struggles through the Mustang line, but is stalled by three Western defenders.

Pre-play concentration and anticipation.

Quarterback Lumpkins calls next play.

The Eagle's ball carrier muscles his way up the middle as teammates throw futile blocks.

With the tenacity of a bull, Netter is attacked by a Woodward defender.

Coach Lunsford began his fourth year of coaching at Walnut Hills with a team which was noticeably lacking in height. As the season progressed, the inability to work as a unit plagued the Eagles while they accumulated a 1-8 record through the first half of the season.

Frustrated but not discouraged, the Eagles started the second half of the season with triumphs over Aiken and Central. But the final league playing record was a disappointing 3-15.

In the district tournament the Eagles drew highly touted, first-seeded St. Xavier. Playing a type of regulated, disciplined basketball that they had not previously exhibited, the Eagles trailed by only one point after 16 minutes. Finally, Xavier's superior height and and power prevailed resulting in a 56-36 defeat for the Eagles.

Oldham goes for two.

Oldham goes high against the Big Reds.

Stargel sets a pick for Katz.

Oldham stretches to take a rebound.

An alert Eagle defense organizes to prevent a Woodward basket.

Dobbins breaks to receive a pass from Bivens.

STUDENT COUNCIL

"Government is a trust, and the officers of the government are trustees; and both the trust and the trustees are created for the benefit of the people."

Henry Clay

"No man undertakes a trade he has learned, even the meanest; yet everyone thinks himself sufficiently qualified for the hardest of all trades—that of the government."

Socrates

To extend the analogy, the position of Student Council might be summarized as "of, by, and for the student body." It must play the role of both maintaining a liaison with, and yet maintaining an independence from, the administration. The most obviously difficult part of its job is creativity—the finding of new ideas year after year. However, also difficult is the task of successfully transforming ideas into action. Among the innovations of 1965-1966 Senior Student Council has been the task of drawing from new ideas the reality of a blueprint for the back circle and a 200 pupil tutoring program. For the first time in 3 years it successfully reached its goals for the American Field Service. However, these successes are only temporary. To be truly meaningful this success must be continued. This is the challenge to the future.

AMERICAN FIELD SERVICE

This year the American Field Service chairmen, Ronna Freiberg and Tom Gold, approached the dual problem of money raising and the assimilation of two exchange students in a unique manner. Instead of relying solely on one large project, which could possibly lose money, they decided to sponsor a small project each month. These were designed to make money for A.F.S. and to let the student body enjoy itself while becoming acquainted with Isabel Hilton and Wolfgang Tress. The monthly projects ranged from intimate affairs such as a buffet dinner cosponsored with the senior class, and a reception, to mass gatherings, such as open houses, a paper drive, car washes, and a theater party. The April project was an activities calendar which could become a lucrative annual A.F.S. tradition. For the first time, A.F.S. experienced no major financial setbacks and was able to exceed its goal of $1500 for two students next year.

Isabel Hilton, from Bradford, England, and Wolfgang Tress, from Dannenfels, Germany, made friends quickly and managed to maintain high scholastic averages in addition to enjoying a full social life.

GLEAM

"Follow the Gleam," wrote Tennyson. Since that day many people have followed their own creative flame in both poetry and prose. Here at Walnut Hills, the best literary efforts of the students are published once each year in the school's own magazine GLEAM.

Despite a recent boom in high school literary magazines relatively few appear in the United States, and GLEAM remains one of the oldest of these few. Filled with both the literary and the artistic works of students, GLEAM represents one of the major facets on Walnuts Hills life, yet one which often goes unnoticed, that of creative talent.

LATIN CLUB

Too often we tolerate modern literature and language without trying to understand the ancient literatures and languages upon which our heritage was founded. Throughout the civilized nations of the world a movement for the revival of the Classics is underway. The Senior Latin Club represents a similar movement on the high school level attempting to give life and personality to the textbook translations. This year a Roman banquet attracted 140 guests who enjoyed dinner and entertainment. Everything was done in Roman style: worship ceremonies, chariot races, lack of utensils, menu, wrestling bouts, dances, plays and a slightly modernized Miss Roman Toga contest, reminiscent of the Roman past. The Latin newspaper endeavors to provide an outlet for humor and creative writing. Comedy again manifested itself in the assembly presentation of Pan-dora's Box by the famed Latin Club Players. Latin Club is for the enjoyment of those who participate and serves as an active proof of the vitality of Latin.

FRENCH CLUB

French Club gives the French student the chance to continue his French education without classroom pressures. The club originated La Table de Français, a specified lunchroom table at which students must converse in French only. In February, the club visited Meier's Wine Cellar. Terminating the Club's schedule is the annual French Club Picnic.

Officers: J. Diamond, P. Ransohoff, M. Pan, C. Prince.

SPANISH CLUB

This year, under president Linda Monroe, Spanish Club has featured a Spanish film on Mexico, a Christmas party with a Spanish piñata, and a speaker from Buenos Aires who gave an interesting talk about the customs and traditions of her country. In spring, Spanish Club will have a special club dinner. Through Spanish Club the members have achieved a better understanding of the Spanish people and their language.

Officers: N. Maslov, I. Lindsey, D. Magrish, P. Osher, L. Monroe.

GERMAN CLUB

During the year 1965-1966 the German Club rose to new heights under its president, Gary Feder. Whether it was a lecture on modern Germany, a satirical "I was not a Nazi Polka," a rousing Christmas party, or year end picnic, the club lived up to its motto, "Deutscher Klub über Alles."

Officers: I. Schroeder, B. Schwartz, G. Feder, R. Smith.

CHOIR

Walnut Hills A Capella Choir, traditionally the largest choral group in the school, is directed by Mr. Bige Hammons. Unlike other vocal groups, acceptance into A Capella Choir is on an audition basis. This year's choir was increased by 40 members, bringing the total to 155. Choir's activities this year included Thanksgiving concert, Christmas concert, Spring concert, and the solo and choir contests. Choir includes two ensemble groups, Boys' Octet and Girls' Triple Trio. The Octet and Trio have done programs at Hyde Park Plaza, at Fountain Square, at Norwood Presbyterian Church, for the Engineering Society, and for the Women's Press Club. In the Spring, the Octet participated in the Hillsdale-Lotspeich Spring concert. Throughout the year Dottie Casello and Andy Willis have done the accompanying for the choir.

Pep Band

SENIOR BAND

Under the direction of Mr. Steiden, the 1965-66 Golden Eagles Marching Band performed at the nine Walnut Hills football games, participated in the University of Cincinnati's Band Day, played in the District Band Contest, sponsored a Band open house, and held the annual Band Christmas and Band Spring Concerts. Of the 84 Band members, 17 students are also members of the Cincinnati Youth Symphony Orchestra and 30 students performed in the bi-annual All City Band and Orchestra Festival.

JUNIOR CLASS PLAY

This Spring, under the direction of Mr. Wayne Gregory, a cast of Walnut Hills students introduced Elmer Fudd and his pet rabbit, Harvey, to the Walnut Hills student body. The stars of Mary Chase's acclaimed play, Harvey, were Gary Feder as Elmer Fudd and Harvey as Harvey.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY

Maxwell Anderson's "Elizabeth the Queen" was the senior class play presented this fall. Under the direction of Mr. Wayne Gregory, Jean Martin, as Elizabeth Tudor, and David Foulkes, as Lord Essex, portrayed the pain and suffering experienced in making a decision between a lover and power.

PEANUTS

Every year the members of the junior class produce a variety show, "Peanuts". This year's show, put on by the class of '67, set several precedents. Rehearsals and set construction took place over the summer, and the show was presented in early September, with two performances. "Peanuts of '65" was unique and exciting. The plot was centered on the activities of a bumbling detective, portrayed by Ernie Diedrich, and his dealings with the female spy ring, F.L.U.S.H. Highlights of the show were the horse chorus's classical ballet number, and an extravaganza pop musical specialty. Directed by Peggy Marks and Bob Schreiber, and under the faculty supervision of Miss Eckman and Mr. Wittstien, "Peanuts of '65-Better than the Best" was a show that will always be remembered by the class that created it.

WALNUTS

Each year the students of Walnut Hills produce the Walnuts. The show is like none other in the city because it is managed completely by the students with faculty members acting as committee advisors. This year, the original story took place in a country on the verge of a revolution because of incompetent rulers and a declining income. Through an unsuccessful switch of identities, the prince, played by Bruce Block, was able to maintain the rule of his kingdom.

SEVENTH GRADE

Entering a new high school is the time for learning, for growing, for understanding. It is the time for new ambitions, excitement, and accomplishment. Even though the Big Sisters and Brothers, the teachers, and the counselors try to help the effies ease into the overwhelming experience of a new school, the rate and degree of adjustment is almost completely individual. The hours spent in more intensive studying and the new social demands skyrocket in comparison with the relatively tame activities of elementary school. The effies gradually discover the necessity for a well-regulated, organized schedule as well as more rigid study habits.

This is also a time for disappointments, private fears, and worries which must accompany such a critical stage of growing up. Yet somehow the effices find themselves. This year's class of five hundred and five, the largest in the history of Walnut Hills, has proved its competence by leading the school every marking period with the highest honor roll percentage. They have entered into the wealth of Junior High School Activities with unmatched enthusiasm and school spirit. And at the close of this important year, they have matured considerably.

EIGHTH GRADE

With one year completed, four hundred and thirty-six eighth graders returned to Walnut Hills facing a curriculum of five major courses and growing responsibilities. In this second year of Junior High the students, advised by their counselors, prepared option blanks for the rest of their high school careers. Having no organized class officers, E-Flat functions were planned by a Social Committee, which sponsored two bake sales and a dance after school. There being no athletic league as such for eighth graders, games were played by invitation only. Football and basketball games provided experience for the future Eaglets. It was a year of growth and preparation, as the eighth graders, while striving to emulate their classmates in the upper school, also began to develop their own personalities.

The Freshman has survived the pressures and uncertainties of a new life at Walnut Hills, and is now an integral part of the high school society. For two years he has made friends and now feels a proud sense of class unity. A blue and gold beanie sits on his head as an expression of his loyalty, and he partakes in the class' first social function, the Frosh Frolic. To help in constructing a firm academic background, Project H correlates English, Latin, history, art, and music to form a rewarding and provoking unit. Most important, the Freshman's interests are broadening as he takes a more active part within the framework of Walnut Hills.

SOPHOMORES

Wise or foolish? The ancient Greeks never could make up their minds. No longer the raw newcoming freshman but not quite old enough to attain the stability and seniority of the true upperclassman, there stands the Soph, caught in the middle of everything.

Far more than ninth grade, the sophomore year starts the high school career. Advanced courses begin. Conferences begin with counselors about the distant spectre of college. In Health, everyone gags over the "Universal Antidote." Upper school activities welcome participation, and the Artist Series and senior high assemblies provide both entertainment and education.

As the Frosh have beanies, the Sophs have their class directories, invaluable publications for everyone. Open Houses and Dress-up Days help build class spirit, while bake sales provide needed funds for the treasury. Special events like the Spring Picnic add extra fun and excitement. In early spring comes the announcement of the P-Nuts co-directors, foreshadowing a long but happy summer of work in preparation for the Best P-Nuts Ever.

Wise or foolish? Clever and lively!

JUNIORS

The Junior Class's annual crusade to outdo the Seniors opens at Walnut Hills with the Junior Class extravaganza "Peanuts." Casting tradition to the wind, the Juniors presented their show twice instead of once, held their cast party in the lunchroom, and discarded the age-old slogan "Best Ever" for the strikingly original "Better than the Best." With the coming of winter, the Juniors turned their minds toward finances, and sold Peanuts records and Walnut Hills stationery to earn money. With Spring came an open house to celebrate the successful completion of SATs, the class production of Harvey, and the BA Prom.

Though their activities seem to indicate otherwise, all is not Peanuts for the Juniors. They also find time to fret over their academic lives and to bemoan the ever-mounting competition for college admission. The Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test in the fall, the National Merit Test in the winter, The Scholastic Aptitude Test and Achievement Tests in the spring all serve to increase the Juniors' awareness of the proximity of their college career. This awareness often results in many a homework hour spent in leafing through college catalogues. From all this, however, the Junior Class emerges relatively unscathed, quite ready to turn into the next Senior Class.

September. It begins. These seniors are on their way toward spending the most exciting nerve-shattering, and rewarding year of high school. Between the Pigskin Preview and "Pomp and Circumstance" they must direct Student Council, the three publications, athletic teams, Big Brothers and Sisters, AFS, and that wild March phenomenon WALNUTS. Yet they must keep up their studies, for their courses are difficult and their grades may well determine their overall academic record. In the back of everyone's mind is "Where will I be this time next year?" The senior exists in a constant state of uncertainty until the mailman arrives a certain fateful day in April.

Suddenly it is spring. APP exams weigh heavily, but the welcome prom is breathtaking, unforgettable, and soon caps and gowns tell us it is over.

UPAWN MY WORD! YOU'VE BEEN ROOKING YOUR CHESS TEAM! THOSE BRILLIANT FIGHTING EAGLES (ABTS, FENG, GEBHART, MCDANIEL, MORRISS, PADDOCK, AND WARNER) SLAVE AWAY HALF THE KNIGHT TO UPHOLD THE HONOR AND GLORY OF OUR DEAR SCHOOL, BUT THEY GET NO SUPPORT AT ALL! THINK, FELLOW SPORTSMEN, WHAT IT WOULD DO FOR THE MORALE OF THESE BRAVE WARRIORS IF AN ESPECIALLY TREMENDOUS MOVE WERE GREETED BY A ROUSING CHORUS OF ENTHUSIASTIC NODS OR AN OVER-POWERING MURMER OF EXCITEMENT, INSTEAD OF THE CUSTOMARY BURST OF SILENCE! SO NEXT YEAR, GANG, LET'S ALL SUFPORT OUR MICHTY FIGHTING CHESS SQUAD!

All of the teachers asking for noncy:
" Why sure you want to buy a hemembrancer, Honey."
Ther we buy locks for our versonal new lockers
And soon to the-wharmy; we're off our rockers!

Then the tenders exclaim smiling cheerfully:
"Exams next week " - to our faces looking fearfully,
A Bluebook for rath, two for Latin,
Can't talk at all without the proctor rantin'

And then these is to be less in the breen cureakes And every a Dier thing a student's Non bakes. But all the reasy roos for the Rem ads To remember and SERVILL when we are GRADS !
